A Boys' School of Proven Worth

We feel that our pride is justified. This Boys' School at Van Cortlandt Park is only ONE year old, although as a former part of the Horace Mann School at 120th Street, 27 years were consumed in building its foundation.

We decided that to prepare boys for college—mentally and physically—we would have to select the best student material and then specialize in the training of boys for college work and life.

We erected a building amid spacious grounds and assembled a staff of men teachers experienced in preparing for college requirements, and now—after our first year, we know we were right, and we face the future confident that boys graduated from this school will speak for us through all their college years.

Our school days from 9 in the morning until 5 at night. We guide a boy during his study and during his play. He is with us all day long—learning and developing.

Fall term opens September 27. Catalogue sent upon request.

A Logical
School
Conclusion

SOME one has said, "To learn, one must keep one's mind in a favorable condition to absorb knowledge."

The problem of selecting a school, then, resolves itself into:

First: the finding of one with environments that are such as will suit the temperament. The individual temperament must be so placed as to keep the mind in favorable condition to learn.

Second: (and this is equally important) the selecting of a school that is thoroughly competent and well equipped. This is the problem that faces every parent and every student.

In the pages of The Tribune is the logical place to look for a school.

For you must select your school from among good schools.

And The Tribune's ninety thousand readers like yourself are the sort of people good schools seek to reach.

Therefore The Tribune is the logical advertising medium for good schools.

If you are in search of a good school, look to The Tribune.

If you have a good school to advertise use The Tribune.
